GROUP BEHAVIOR

Constructive Group Behavior	⇔	Problematic Group Behavior
Members openly communicate personal feelings and attitudes and anticipate that other members will be helpful.		Members continue to keep discussions on a superficial level or avoid revealing their feelings and opinions.
Members listen carefully to one another and give all ideas a fair hearing.		Members are critical and evaluative of each other. They rarely acknowledge or listen to contributions from others.
Decisions are reached through group consensus after considering everyone's views and feelings.		Dominant members dismiss or bully other members in decision-making
Members make efforts to incorporate the views of dissenters or less powerful members rather than to dominate or override these views.		Members make decisions prematurely without identifying or weighing possible alternatives.

Constructive Group Behavior	Problematic Group B	ehavior
Members recognize and give feedback regarding others' strengths and growth.	Members are critical of others' diffe	erences.
Members use "I" messages to speak for themselves, owning their own feelings and positions on matters.	Members do not personalize their indirect forms of communication to feelings and positions.
The guidelines established in initial sessions become norms.	Members act in distracting or disru	ptive ways.
The group works out problems that impair group functioning.	Members avoid talking about the haddressing personal or group probl
Members are attuned to the needs and feelings of others and give emotional support.	Members show little awareness of feelings of others; emotional investrabilimited.

CIRCLE GROUP Following at Restorative Justice Model

- Respect the talking piece: everyone listens, everyone has a turn
- Speak from the heart: your truth, your perspectives, your experiences
- Listen from the heart: Let go of stories that make it hard to hear each other
- Trust that you know what to say: no need to rehearse: no need to rehearse
- Say just enough: without feeling rushed, be concise and considerate of the time of others
